A Third Way Beyond Capitalism and Communism

HELP BUILD THE PAPER - PAY THE 50p SOLIDARITY PRICE

NFN 121

NO PLACE TO GO?

THREE AND A HALF MILLION HONG KONG CHINESE HOLD BRITISH PASSPORTS. They are worried about their future when Hong Kong is handed over to the brutal Communist regime in 1997.

MOST OF THEM WANT TO LEAVE HONG KONG but America, Canada and Australia will only take the richest. So where do the rest go?

THE MAJORITY OF THE PEOPLE WHO RULE OVER US THINK THEY SHOULD COME TO BRITAIN. The Tories want them here because they're seen as good Capitalists. The subversive Adam Smith Institute wants to move them all to Scotland. Other right-wing Conservatives want to spread them all over the British Isles.

So-called "moderate" Tories, such as top MP Eldon Griffiths, think that we should "only" take about 1 MILLION Hong Kong Chinese. Cabinet officials have already drawn up plans to organize the massive influx, but these are being kept secret in order to avoid alerting ordinary people to the mad scheme.

While the Tories plan to change the face of Britain for ever, the opposition parties do nothing to oppose this intended genocide. Instead, they want to hasten the destruction of the British peoples, cultures and heritage.

Labour plan to relax even the weak immigration restrictions that the Tories do enforce. The Democrats want to scrap them altogether, while the Greens don't even believe in nationhood and would let everyone in the world come to Britain if they wanted!

FORCED ON US

The native peoples of the British Isles never wanted coloured immigration. But it has been forced on us for the past 40 years by our masters in parliament, the media and the big companies which profit from cheap immigrant labour.

The evil policy of forced racial integration is intended to destroy the unique peoples and cultures of the world. It has led to children of all races being forced to adopt alien customs and languages at school, rather than growing up knowing and loving their own identities, history and cultures. The attempt to force us to be all the same is creating race hatred. The "melting pot" is reaching boiling point. More repressive laws and more brutal policing will only keep the lid on for a while longer.

And now our rulers want to throw three and a half million Chinese in on top without even asking us. What kind of democracy is that?

They must be mad. But not as mad as we will be if we let them get away with it!

IDENTITY

So what can be done? Surely we can't hand the people of Hong Kong over to the Red Butchers of Beijing?

No. But we don't have to destroy what's left of our own identity by letting them come here either.

When Britain leased Hong Kong from China in 1897, the agreement was made with a government with no connection at all with the murderous Marxist dictatorship which didn't seize power until 1949.

The nearest to a true successor to the old Chinese government is the anti-Communist Chinese state in Taiwan. Hong Kong should therefore be handed over to Taiwan rather than to Red China.

But the only real solution to the Hong Kong problem is for the Chinese themselves to overthrow the Communist tyranny gripping the bulk of their country. If our government is really so concerned about them it should provide finance for radio and TV stations to broadcast the anti-Communist message back into China.

When the time is right they will need military hardware to overthrow the brutal old regime. They certainly do not need to become yet another wave of low paid immigrants struggling to survive in far away Britain.

OWN COUNTRY

The leaders of the Chinese student movement now exiled in Hong Kong have made it clear that they do not want the "right" to live amongst alien peoples in strange lands.

"All we want is the chance to take back our own country so that our children can grow up among our own people with our own customs and identities. Our own history and our own future."

That is what we want too. It's what decent people of all races want but we are being denied that right in Britain by the multi-racist dictatorship of parliament and the press.

If they get their way and impose another 3 or 4 million immigrants on us, it will destroy finally and forever the unique identities that our forefathers created in these islands.

We believe that these identities are worth preserving. DO YOU? If so, your place is with us, organizing against the Hong Kong immigration plot of the old parties.

IT'S TOUGH AT THE TOP

WHILE millions of ordinary workers struggle for wage "increases" which merely keep up with inflation, Britain's company bosses have been awarding themselves massive rises.

Tne latest in a whole string of grotesque increases for the super rich came when Lord King, chairman of British Airways, more than doubled his already inflated salary. He now "earns" £386,000 per year.

At the same time, he boosted the pay of his directors by 70% to a total of £1.84 million. Then to add insult to injury he agreed to a £900,000 golden handshake to his friend Gordon Dunlop, BA's former finance director.

Since BA's pre-tax profits rose last year by 17.5%, it is only fair that all of its employees - including senior management - should get pay rises to reward the boost in productivity. But even fellow capitalist shareholders are appalled by the high level pay awards, particularly as their own dividends did not receive a similar boost.

So too are British Airways' shopfloor workforce, who have been limited to pay "rises" of between 5 - 6% - below the rate of inflation.

NF News does not believe that all men are equal or that everyone in a given industry should receive the same rewards. Top managerial staff do have enormous responsibilities and are often skilled decision makers. Their crucial role in company success needs to be rewarded.

But there must also be social justice within industry. The policy of the Basque co-operative factories in Mondragon seems to represent a good balance. The rule there is that the highest earnings in each industry must not be more than three times the lowest. Management there is seen as honour in itself - something to be rewarded, but not a matter for divisive inequalities in pay or conditions.

Such a fair approach is just one of the reasons why the Basque co-op movement has gone from strength to strength, while British industry remains plagued by strikes and related problems.

For when top executives like Lord King indulge in theft like this, it is no wonder that ordinary workers feel resentful.

ROOTS

IN OUR rootless, drifting society it is hardly surprising that Scotland (Alba) is suffering from the same problems that afflict Wales (Cymru).

Every yea, now, around 150 traditional crofts in Gaelic speaking Scotland are snatched up by thoughtless English yuppies who convert them into holiday homes and rural retreats. Young people are being forced out of their communities to seek work and homes as prices rocket sky high due to increased demand from wealthy outsiders.

The traditional culture and language of such places as the Western Isles is also suffering; yet another parallel with Cymru.

In Thatcher's dis-United Kingdom success is measured in financial terms alone, and money is their only morality.

Only the National Revolutionary response brings hope to these suffering communities:

Fight disintergration. Defend jobs, housing and culture!

THE EEC MEANS LESS MONEY IN YOUR POCKET!

ANOTHER so-called European election may have come and gone, but the EEC continues to grind down the British peoples, making us literally pay for membership of the Common Market.

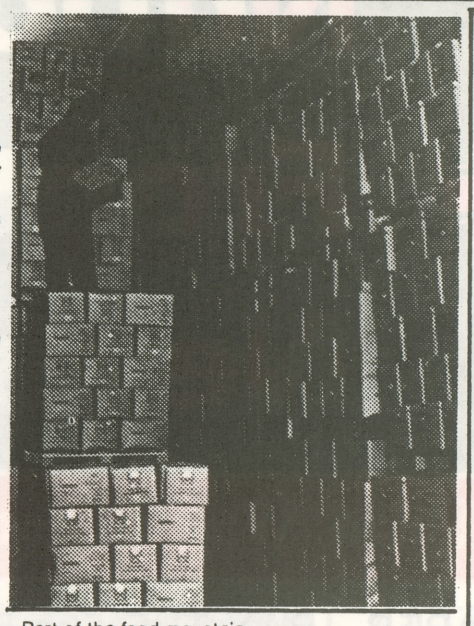
A National Consumer Council report claims that a family of four pays £9.00 a week more on food than they need to thanks to the Common Agricultural Policy. To maintain the gigantic food mountains, taxpayers have to shell out half as much again, increasing such a family's total bill to £13.50 extra a week.

Even the Managing Director of Tesco, David Malpas, pointed to the Single European Market of 1992 as heralding dearer food, less choice and lower quality.

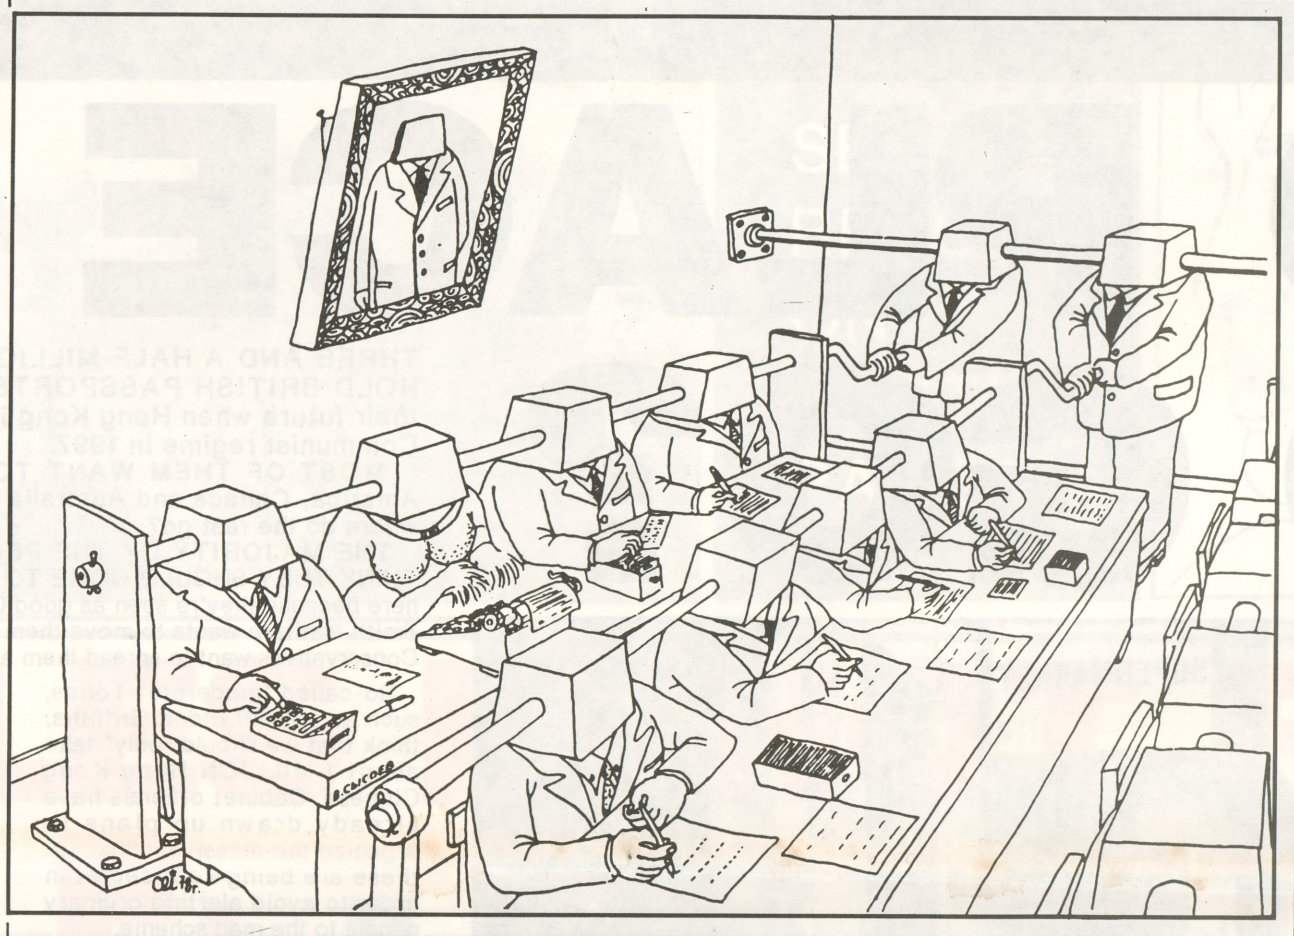
What is left of community life in Britain will also be damaged even more if VAT is imposed by the EEC rulers, with voluntary-run village halls losing their zero rating. Clearly, the "harmonisation" of Europe is more important to meddling EEC bureaucrats than what remains of local feeling and untiy.

In a further shock to advocates of the "Europe of the Merchants", our trade deficit is now an unbelievable £14,000 million a year. Coupled with the £2,000 million lost in Common Market fraud cases, the result is bad news for Britain.

There is only one way out of this mess, and that's to get Britain out of the EEC.



Part of the food mountain



WHAT PRICE DEMOCRACY?

THERE can be little doubt that an increasing sign of the times in our present political life is a general public disillusionment, not just with the Conservatives or S.D.P. but with the very whole system of Parliamentary Democracy which they advocate.

This is very bad news for the Capitalists to whom this structure has served so well, and it is interesting to note the increasingly desperate measures employed by the overlords to keep their paid puppets (600 odd Westminster M.P.s and others) well and truly chained to the whole circus.

Yet another small example in this vein is the proposed scheme of the "Top Salaries Review Board" to give golden handshake payoffs to those politicians demoted from ministerial posts, of up to £7000. The Prime Minister is said to have "genuine sympaphy for those she sacks."

Apparantly, the salaries of the poor dears can plunge to a measely M.P.s pay of £24,107. A third of this amount would be grossly overpaying them for their misrepresentation, especially as some M.P.s have the unbelievable gall to work part-time as Solicitors or Accountants to top up their earnings.

STOMACH CHURNING

These stomach-churning, money grubbing antics by the System's lackeys leads us to pose another question. Why is it that former high flying ministers like Norman Tebbitt and John Nott, who were professional politicans and not industrialists or economists, can command salaries in excess of six figures in the business world for working in what is often little more than an advisory capacity for their respective companies?

Our guess is that it is nothing more or less than a guarantee by the big business backers of governments to ensure that these parliamentary careerists keep their mouths firmly shut about events that they have encountered in their political careers that would assuredly lead at least some of them to seriously question the whole corrupt system, were they not dependant on that same set up for their thirty pieces of silver.

It is by the use of such methods along with a virtually watertight monopoly of the press and TV and broadcasting outfits that the snakes who slither through the Capitalist undergrowth believe that they have things well and truly sewn up. Let them fool themselves. The trend of ordinary men and women turning their backs on the parliamentary system is all fuel to the Nationalist fire.

The National Front must live and plan for the day of reckoning when the whole grubby collection of self-seeking politicians are exposed as a shameful fraud. Parliamentary democracy from Cromwell through to Thatcher has been one long catalogue of betrayal, misrule, treachery and corruption. It is already going weak at the knees, and the NF is pledged to finish the job and slay the giant. The Distributist alternative of popular participatory rule must be the future that is ours.

MOTOR MURDER

THE continued decline of our native car industry was highlighted by the UK motor industry's trade deficit in the first nine months of 1988, with a 50% increase on 1987 figures, reaching an incredible £4,648 million.

Although exports increased slightly from £4,494 million in 1987 to £4,832m; imports by contrast rocketed from £7,552 million up to £9,480m. A third of the visible trade deficit was related to the motor industry situation. It is a scandal that never should have been allowed to happen.

Successive governments have failed to grasp the nettle and implement the only sane solution; ban imports that can be made or grown in this country and promote our own industry.

POLITICAL FOOTBALL

OVER the years the NF has documented the role of plastic credit and identification cards in the on-going drift towards a more centralized, more inquisitive state system. There is now serious concern that the "Information Exchange" Poll Tax computer network will be used as the basis of a national identity card. Britain's 600,000 full-time students have already been told by the government that they will be expected to carry a Poll Tax ID card. And football supporters will be carrying their own brand of ID card by the spring of 1990.

SOCIAL CONTROL

It is immediately obvious that both of these sections of our society, students and football supporters, are deeply unpopular with the present government, and are being used as guinea-pigs in a deadly serious experiment in social control . Does anyone really believe that Thatcher and Moynihan expect membership cards to reduce the level of soccer violence? The fact is that if football supporters and others willingly accept the imposition of these cards then the principal will be established and spread throughout the population until we are all prisoners of the plastic card!

The NF's message to football suporters is clear. We demand the wholesale transfer of ownership and decision making power to supporters themselves. Only by taking the power out of the hands of self-serving bureaucrats and capitalist businessmen can football have a future as a participative sport.

BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

Remember, Thatcher's first response to the Heysel tragedy was "Can't football be played behind closed doors?" The Tories haven't the wit to realise that the more you isolate people from their traditional social structures, the more they will react with mindless violence.

So, we must socialiaze football ownership structures and democratize its decision making process. And when the day comes we will make a large pile out of Moynihan's membership cards and ceremoniously set them alight!

AN EXPENSIVE LUXURY

DESPERATE to avoid a financial and political disaster over their absurd plans to privatise the water industry, the Tories are telling the water authorities to conceal the huge cost of bringing drinking water supplies up to minimum health standards.

The Department of the Environment has advised the water boards to show potential investors plans for future capital expenditure which do not include the hundreds of millions of pounds needed before the water supplies comply with the basic standards set by the EEC. Yet if this is not done soon, the European Commission will prosecute the government and the water authorities for ignoring its guidelines for a decent water supply.

The cost of replacing dangerous lead service pipes alone will be at least £750 million. Around 2,000 miles of mains will need major attention in the next five years. Coal tar linings in places such as Stoke-on-Trent are a potential health hazard which must also be dealt with.

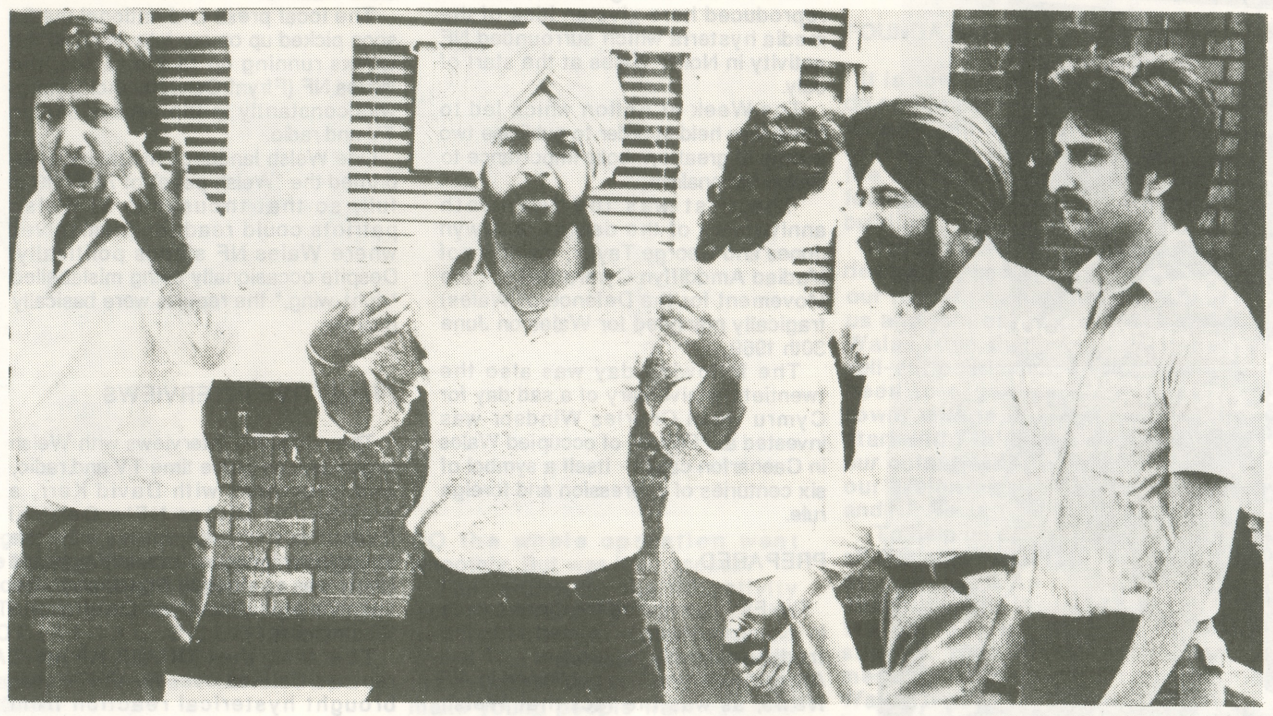
In addition, the DoE has advised the water authorities not to estimate the costs of complying with the legal standards for pesticides and nitrates from chemical fertilizers.

Since Friends of the Earth have found 300 water sources are over the limit for pesticide residues alone, the cost of dealing with this hangover from capitalist agriculture is going to run into billions of pounds.

All-in-all, it is no wonder that the government are trying to sell-off the whole shambles. Nor that they are not only deceiving investors as to the cost of sorting it out, but are also assuring them that they will be able to pass on the cost of it all, not to the polluters, but to the consumers.

From being a basic part of our birthright, clean and healthy water is going to become an expensive luxury - if you can get it at all.

REPATRIATION OR RACE WAR?



RESPECT OR REPRESSION?

WHERE DO YOU STAND?

THE CLASHES between young Muslims and the police at demonstrations against Salman Rushdie's blasphemous book The Satanic Verses have done further irreversible damage to the myth that it is possible to build a peaceful multi-racial society.

Experience is now showing what common sense made clear all along the line: If two or more different peoples with totally different sets of values are forced to live together under the same state law, then either one or other, or both, groups will be pressured to abandon their traditional values in the "melting pot."

SUFFERING

Exactly which group suffers the most will differ from time to time. In this country, Labour governments and councils have put most pressure on European people to change. So Hindu festivals replace Christmas trees in schools and nursery rhymes are re-written in the images of the Brave New World.

On the other side of the multi-racist coin, the Tories brought the majority of coloured immigrants here, but tend to stress the need for them to abandon their cultures and strive to become black or brown capitalists.

The idea is that economic integration will lead to social and marital integration, which in turn will put an end to the "problems" posed for the System by any ethnic group which maintains a sense of its own identity and value.

But the shockwaves from the Rushdie affair have shown that the Tory dream of genocide through peaceful integration is going to end in a rude awakening at the hands of growing Muslim fundamentalism.

The Tories are now trapped on the horns of a dilemma of their own making. Either they agree to ban Rushdie's unpleasant (and thoroughly anti- ritish) book - which will merely teach the Muslims how to use their growing power to maximum effect on issues such as separate schools. Or they will have to order the police to crush with ever-growing force any demonstration of Muslim militancy.

VICIOUS SPIRAL

Either course will lead to the increasing alienation of the Muslim minority in this country, and from there to a vicious spiral of racial hatred and violence.

Of course, there is a Third Way, but the Tories will never take it, for it demands the total dismantling of the profitable multi-racial tyranny.

What is needed is for it to be recognized that it was a terrible error to bring into our lands millions of unassimilable immigrants. The flood tide of immigration must be reversed, but this must be done with the utmost humanity, and so will take many years.

In the meantime, the state must acknowledge that the identities and traditions of every ethnic group - native European and immigrant alike - are entitled to respect.

While the Muslims and other ethnic minorities are temporarily resident in our countries, their religion and traditions must be protected from attack by atheistic race-mixers like Rushdie.

In turn, the majority European population is entitled to demand that the civil law of the land is based upon traditional European values and enforced regardless of race, creed or colour.

The Rushdie Affair, together with the fast-growing moves towards voluntary racial segregation in schools, show that multi-racism is dead. So over the next few years, all the peoples living in this country must decide what is to replace it. What will it be? Respect and Repatriation? Or Repression and Race War?

The National Front, together with the growing number of African and Asian separatists with whom we are working, choose the former. The politicians, police chiefs and the bosses have chosen the latter. Where do you stand?

SAVE SOME BEDS FOR THE CABINET

IN BRITAIN there are 250,000 sufferers of Schizophrenia, of whom about 20,000 are in hospital at any one time. Schizophrenia is one of the most disabling illnesses known to man. For the sufferer there is fear of hearing strange voices inside the head, hallucinations and extreme obsessions. Schizophrenics become excited to a state of euphoria or become very withdrawn. The illness fills more hospital beds than any other.

Yet the government is forcing patients back into the community by its policy of running down and closing hospitals for the mentally ill.

In the past ten years over 23,000 mental hospital beds have been closed, while only 4,000 residential places have been provided in the community. Once closed, the hospitals and their grounds are sold off to developers for huge and immoral profits.

This leaves an increasing number of mentally ill people to attempt to fend for themselves in an uncaring and hostile environment. Without adequate benefits or care some go back to their families who are unequiped to cope wih the emotional and financial strains forced upon them.

There are thousands of mentally ill people sleeping rough, and many end up in prison or committing suicide.

In this sick society, it is the sick who suffer the most.

THE SUFFERING CONTINUES

IT'S OFFICIAL: THATCHERISM KILLS.

A new report by the Office of Population Censuses and Surveys reveals frightening details of social injustice in the dis-United Kingdom.

The mortality rates between social classes that have been widening slightly between 1971 and 1981 have dramatically increased in recent years as the effects of Conservative Party policies have hit the population. For example, men in social class 5 are 2.3 times more likely to die prior to retiring than those professionals in social class 1.

This disasterous state of affairs has its roots in the divisive nature of capitalism, an internationalist system that creates a cleavage between capital and labour within the economy and society, and which dumps the working class whenever the next slump occurs.

NO OPTION EITHER

Yet State-Socialism is no option either, being even worse than capitalism in many respects. Every Labour Party government has left office with unemployment higher than when they took office. Both these monopolies are frauds.

The National-Revolutionary answer is clear: hand over the means for material well-being to the workers and managers themselves, do not entrust industry to either absentee shareholders or Red bureaucrats. Only then can we seriously begin to eliminate social injustice.

IS THIS MASON MAD?

FROM the man who brought you the Poll Tax comes the latest zany idea of the Tory far right - the mass colonisation of remote parts of Scotland, Cumbria and Wales with 3.2 million Hong Kong Chinese!

Douglas Mason of the Adam Smith Institute reckons that Scotland would be the perfect place for the transference of hundreds of thousands of Chinese money-grubbers.

Not that this "cultural enrichment" would come free mind you. Mason estimates that around £500 million per year would be needed until 1997 to provide properties, many of them large high-rise buildings.

Ecology buffs will be ecstatic at this proposed improvement of the notoriously ugly Scottish landscape!

Perhaps this new-fangled immigration policy would boost Scotland's lagging economic growth rate and provide employment for the country's jobless (building plush offices and luxury flats no doubt). But what do the people of Scotland think of their proposed new neighbours? Does Mason really care?

Mason's mad ideas, floated in a new Adam Smith Institute booklet, A Home for Enterprise, show not compassion but CONTEMPT. Under their insane day-dream the heritage of East and West would perish in yet another multi-racial farce. But culture and racial preservation mean little to liberalism and those who worship Dollar Almighty.

One final thought. Given the financial exemptions to be provided for the would-be colony, would its inhabitants be expected to pay Mason's Poll Tax?

A recent issue of the inappropriately named magazine "Living Marxism" carried an interview with Die Grunen (German Greens) spokeswoman Petra Kelly, in which she states "a problem we have is economic policy. There is a lack of clarity here because some argue strongly in favour of the market and consumption, while others say the market is bad. The problem is they can't show a 'third way'. We got stuck in our economic programme because we all say we want a third way between Capitalism and State Socialism. But this third form doesn't yet exist anywhere."

Perhaps someone ought to treat her to a subscription to NF News and Nationalism Today!

Come to think of it, the almost-living Marxists of the RCP might do well to study Muammar Qathafi's advocacy of a Third Way in his Green Book. Or would that be just too revolutionary a step for a magazine available from W.H. Smith's?

AFTER all the excruciating work which they put in to no avail for the Vauxhall by-election campaign, Flag activists must be looking forward to their annual jaunt to Ibiza. A recent issue of their rag of the same name offers readers the chance to join this cultural excursion at a mere £250 per head for a 7 day trip.

How the Flag manages to fool anyone into paying such a sum when they could make the same trip with Horizon for as little as £99, or could spend 14 days there with Skytours for just £139 is totally beyond us.

Is there any truth in the rumour that the Chairman has recently taken over as head of the Flag group's leisure department? We wonder?

AND whilst on the subject of things Flagging, we were always a bit perplexed why their Mr. Whicker, the Nazi dustman from Mitcham, is constantly referred to as "fast Eddie" by the scribblers at Searchlight. Having watched him leave the election count at Lambeth Town Hall, however, we are perplexed no longer. Another rather large individual from the same entourage at said event was one Paul Ashen from Bromley, a former Olympic sprinter. We hear from the RCP grapevine that he was able to put his talents to good use when the two groups encountered each other briefly on the way home.

49 Oakfield Street was the venue for a Cardiff SWP "party" last month. To the dismay of local Marxist Julien Goss and his Trot son who live there, among the brawling gatecrashers observed entering were the Drugs Squad and a firm of CID heavies. And it wasn't the Pepsi they were after!

HYSTERIA IN

THE PRESS cuttings and headlines reproduced here give an idea of the media hysteria which surrounded NF activity in North Wales at the start of July.

The Week of Action which led to these was held in order to publicise two events of great symbolic importance to Welsh nationalism.

The first was the twentieth anniversary of the deaths of Alwyn Jones and George Taylor, members of Mudiad Amddiffyn Cymru (MAC - the Movement for the Defence of Wales) tragically martyred for Wales on June 30th 1969.

The following day was also the twentieth anniversary of a sad day for Cymru when Charles Windsor was invested as "Prince" of occupied Wales in Caenarfon castle - itself a symbol of six centuries of oppression and foreign rule.

PREPARED

The Ffrynt prepared for these events in a number of ways. To start with, the traditional rally in memory of the Abergele Martyrs was publicised in NF News, as was the fact that Welsh nationalists linked with the organisers of the Abergele event were hoping to get marchers to move on for a demonstration in Caernarfon later on Saturday 1st July.

Also publicised was the fact that the Ff.C. not only supported these events, but that our militants intended to take part in them as well alongside concerned people from Wales and our sister nations.

The local press and national media soon picked up on our intentions. In the weeks running up to the rallies, the Wales NF (Ffrynt Cenedlaethol Cymru) was constantly in the papers and on TV and radio.

One Welsh language magazine even printed the "Welsh page" of NFN 119 in full, so that thousands of Welsh patriots could read for themselves where Wales NF stands politically. Despite occasionally being mislabelled "right-wing," the reports were basically positive.

PRIME TIME INTERVIEWS

They included interviews with Welsh organisers on prime time TV and radio, and interviews with David Kerr, a member of Ulster NF's Central Executive, who explained why the struggle for independence in Wales and Ulster was so strongly linked, given the twin imperialisms of Dublin and Westminster.

The fact that Ulster NF sent representatives over for the events brought hysterical reaction from certain sections of the media and some so-called "Nationalists." But in spite of the lies and distortions, the overall effect of the media coverage was to make hundreds of thousands of Welsh people remember events in our recent history which the System would rather we forgot - and understand that the NF is making a serious drive for influence in rural Wales.

As well as the publicity gained by NFN, much interest was generated, particularly in North Wales, by preparation for the rallies by activists in the week before. Our comrades from Ulster NF also helped greatly by distributing issue 5 of their paper Ulster Nation with its back page concerning Abergele and the MAC Martyrs. One North Wales paper in particular reprinted this in full on their front page.

Our militants also distributed leaflets calling on people to attend the Abergele rally. We chose to stress this event rather than the proposed Caernarfon one because it was more radical and more important, as well as the fact that the Caenarfon one would only take place if the Abergele march had a good turn-out and if its organisers had managed to arrange transport to Caernarfon after the wreath laying.

FEVER PITCH

The fever pitch of opinion during the run-up to the Abergele parade was reflected by the fact that one diehard activist, who was leafletting Rhyl town centre alone, was searched, questioned and nearly arrested by police purely on account of the "provocative" nature of the leaflet. Yet all it did was to call on Welsh youth to do something for Wales today even if, like the entire leadership of the NF, they were too young to do anything alongside Alwyn Jones and George Taylor back in 1969.

NF told: keep off martyrs' march

NATIONAL Front extremists have been warned to stay away from the annual Abergele Martyrs' march.

The group plans to attend this Saturday's commemoration of two Abergele men who blew themselves up on the eve of Prince Charles' Investitute in 1969.

A spokesman for the Abergele Martyrs' Memorial Committee has warned the Front to stay away and said they will not be allowed to march with them.

The National Front have been distributing fascist literature around Abergele and urging its supporters to march in the town.

Abergele councillor Derek Holmes said he knew several people had received leaflets from the NF.

He said that local people feared there would be trouble if the National Front were involved.

The annual commemoration service for the two men, Alwyn Jones and George Taylor, marches every year to remember that they were killed while trying to blow up the railway line carrying the royal train to Caernarfon.

WELSH MARTYRS

Today, Ulster is engaged in a battle for her very survival. She is fighting for her independence — the right of our nation to be ruled by Westminster. She is not the first nation within the British Family of Nations to see that Westminster imperialism is intolerable. The year 1921 saw the start of Ire's independence from Westminster's rule. Unfortunately, despite winning her own national freedom, Eire has sought to destroy Ulster's separate identity - something Westminster still cannot permit. In similar manner, Wales has also still never permit their nation to be destroyed by their larger neighbour.

Over the centuries, Wales has suffered greatly under English State rule until 1922, when for the first time since the days of Owain Glyndwr proud Cymru stood beneath the ancient flag of their forefathers. For six years they successfully challenged Westminster rule until they were stopped in 1922.

Alwyn Jones. His spirit of Cymru will live on. A true son of Wales.

George Taylor. His sacrifice will not be forgotten. A true son of Wales.

The Welsh resistance was comprised of two organisations - the Free Wales Army and Mudiad Amddiffyn Cymru, the Movement for the Defence of Wales. These organisations came into existence when the English government gave permission for Liverpool Corporation to flood the valley of Tryweryn to form Lake Celyn. This was done with total disregard of the wishes of the people of Wales and of the committee that were destroyed. The MAC … to favour of this measure, such was the popular disapproval. All legal means of protest were arrogantly ignored by the Westminster overlords who soon showed of the extent, just as they continue to force the Hildebrandt Pact down the throats of the Ulster people today.

Welsh patriots were forced to defend their nation, language, heritage and culture by force of arms. This was a wholly legitimate form of action just as it is perfectly acceptable for Ulstermen to prepare for "Bomber" Command's Ire's independence from Westminster's rule. Unfortunately, despite winning her own national freedom, Eire has sought to destroy Ulster's separate identity - something Westminster still cannot permit. In similar manner, Wales has also still never permit their nation to be destroyed by their larger neighbour.

Over the centuries, Wales has suffered greatly under English State rule until 1922, when for the first time since the days of Owain Glyndwr proud Cymru stood beneath the ancient flag of their forefathers. For six years they successfully challenged Westminster rule until they were stopped in 1922.

The Welsh resistance was comprised of two organisations - the Free Wales Army and Mudiad Amddiffyn Cymru, the Movement for the Defence of Wales. These organisations came into existence when the English government gave permission for Liverpool Corporation to flood the valley of Tryweryn to form Lake Celyn. This was done with total disregard of the wishes of the people of Wales and of the committee that were destroyed. The MAC … to favour of this measure, such was the popular disapproval. All legal means of protest were arrogantly ignored by the Westminster overlords who soon showed of the extent, just as they continue to force the Hildebrandt Pact down the throats of the Ulster people today.

Welsh patriots were forced to defend their nation, language, heritage and culture by force of arms. This was a wholly legitimate form of action just as it is perfectly acceptable for Ulstermen to prepare for "Bomber" Command's Ire's independence from Westminster's rule. Unfortunately, despite winning her own national freedom, Eire has sought to destroy Ulster's separate identity - something Westminster still cannot permit. In similar manner, Wales has also still never permit their nation to be destroyed by their larger neighbour.

Over the centuries, Wales has suffered greatly under English State rule until 1922, when for the first time since the days of Owain Glyndwr proud Cymru stood beneath the ancient flag of their forefathers. For six years they successfully challenged Westminster rule until they were stopped in 1922.

WELSH 'MARTYRS' PARAD… THREAT BY NF

by JAMES PRICE

MEMBERS of Ulster National Front may attend the commemoration of the two Welsh terrorists blown up by their own bomb on the eve of the investiture of the Prince of Wales in 1969.

David Kerr, Ulster NF spokesman, claimed NF men would be attending incognito in Abergele on July 1.

He said: "I am sure that our members can deal with any trouble that might arise, but I hope that some of the extremist Leftist infiltrators of the Welsh nationalist movement will not try to turn this solemn occasion into a street brawl with us."

The latest edition of the NF publication, Ulster Nation devotes a page, headed "Welsh Martyrs", to how Alwyn Jones and George Taylor died.

It says the Free Wales Army and Movement For The Defence Of Wales started following the flooding of Tryweryn Valley to provide water for Liverpool.

And adds the men's sacrifice had been forgotten by "careerist politicians of the so-called 'nationalist' Plaid Cymru".

Plaid Cymru has called for an end to the annual Abergele Martyrs March, saying it was time the families of the two men were left in peace.

A big police turn-out, including undercover officers, will be at the 20th anniversary remembrance of the incident.

There was only one arrest when police detained the founder and leader of the Free Wales Army in the 1960s, Cayo Jones, for allegedly being drunk.

Fury at NF rally

NATIONAL Front plans to stage a rally in support of Welsh bombers have been condemned by Plaid Cymru.

A telephone call to Plaid's Clwyd organiser, Mr Karl Davies, saying the rally will take place at Caernarfon on July 1 — the anniversary of Prince Charles' investiture — has angered Plaid's home affairs spokesman.

The rally by the Front is to celebrate the activities of the Free Wales Army and commemorate two men killed in Abergele on the eve of the investiture, when a bomb they were carrying exploded.

Plaid's home affairs spokesman, Rhyl solicitor Neil Taylor, described the Free Wales Army as "comic buffoons".

But he equally condemned attempts by the National Front to join in commemorations for the 20th anniversary of the two dead men.

He said: "Supporting racists who put the bomb before the ballot box is not the way we should progress. I accept that young people in Wales want radical political changes, but they have a choice of political parties."

Front visit to rally is condemned

MEMBERS of the National Front have been condemned for planning to lay a wreath on the graves of two Abergele men who died when a bomb they were carrying exploded.

It is believed the bomb carried by Mr Alwyn Jones and Mr George Taylor was intended for a train carrying the Royal Family to the 1969 Investiture of the Prince of Wales.

Since their death the two men have been a focal point of extreme Welsh nationalism and a group of National Front members now plan to commemorate their death on the 20th anniversary of the Investiture.

Protest

Mr Gwyn Davies from Cardiff, NF spokesman for Wales, said he would be coming to Abergele on Saturday morning next week before joining a protest rally in Caernarfon at 2pm.

But the plans have been … by a member of … from Mass Action, Abergele.

the Abergele Martyrs Memorial Committee.

Mr Owain Williams said: "We were originally set up to help the families at the time of their grief, because they were treated very badly.

"I never heard of any National Front giving consolation to the families before and I find it rather suspicious that they're planning to go to Abergele."

Mr Williams, who is a Dwyfor district councillor, said an annual rally organised by the Abergele Martyrs would go ahead again this year.

The rally will start in the town at 2pm on July 1 and Mr Williams said the committee were expecting supporters from throughout Wales.

Both the National Front and the rally organisers have been criticised by Plaid Cymru home affairs spokesman, Rhyl solicitor Mr Neil Taylor.

"If they had any respect for the two men that died they would leave them and their families alone."

WHERE WE STAND

NATIONAL FREEDOM

Britain is a family of Nations - England, Wales, Scotland, Kernow, Mannin, Eire and Ulster - linked by blood and history. The peoples of all nations have an inalienable right to self - determination and to preserve their native cultures and traditions. We look forward to the day when Eire voluntarily rejoins the future federated British family of nations.

RACIAL SEPARATION

Race is the main determining factor in nationality. Racially mixed societies cannot form one nation and are therefore unstable. No one race is 'superior' to others, but they are all different. Racial integration threatens all races. Humane repatriation is better for us all than endless repression and racial violence.

SOCIAL JUSTICE

The nation is a great family. Every member of our national family has the absolute right to care at the nation's expense when young, sick or old. There must be equal opportunity for all, but unearned privilege for none.

WELL DISTRIBUTED PROPERTY

The realistic opportunity to own one's own home and place of work is the right of all our people. Direct ownership of the means of production and distribution is essential for individual freedom, for family stability and for the best use of our national resources.

SANITY IN FINANCE

The right to create the credit needed by the economy must belong to the people's government. The banks, which have usurped this right, must be stripped of their unjust gains and power. The National Debt is based on usury and must be repudiated.

RESPECT FOR NATURE

We hold the environment in trust for future generations. Pollution of the land, sea and air, and of the gene pool through radiation, is a betrayal of that trust.

POPULAR RULE

Parliamentary representation is a fraud. Party rule is a cloak for the dictatorship of vested interests and media bosses. Government must be in the hands of the people themselves, through new information technology, and the election of delegates to carry out their wishes. Power must be devolved to the lowest possible level.

THE ARMED PEOPLE

The freedoms given by these principles must be defended through armed neutrality, with well - equiped national defence forces involving the entire adult population. Power, wealth and arms in the hands of the people!

REVOLUTION NOT REFORM

These changes cannot be brought about by tinkering within the System, or by relying on the System's own institutions, such as parliament, schools or the courts. They can only spring from a National Revolution. This revolution must begin in the hearts of individuals, then spread by their example to involve whole communities in revolutionary structures such as alternative councils and schools, neighbourhood patrols and self - help groups. Once we cease to depend on the institutions of the old State, it will be swept aside.

THE THIRD WAY

The growth of these ideas in nation after nation shows that a new force is rising in the world for the 21st century. Leaving behind the sterile hatreds of Capitalism, Nazism and Communism, this Third Way offers a real future for all our peoples. We urge all those who agree with these principles to join with us in the struggle to build the National Front - the Movement of the Future.

ABERGELE

The leaflet also advertised the Ff.C.C.'s Welsh language publication Y Ddraig Goch.

On the actual anniversary of the tragic death of the MAC Martyrs, Wales NF cadres and fellow National Revolutionaries from other parts of the British Family of Nations laid wreaths on their graves.

In previous years (and again this year) other Welsh nationalists have been unwilling to take a day off work to honour the heroic dead on the actual anniversary. This is unacceptable to us, so the NF ceremony took place on Friday 30th June, rather than the more "convenient" Saturday favoured by everyone else.

Having paid our respects, we decided not to join the Saturday march as an organisation, as this could have given various Marxists who have tried to hijack the Welsh nationalist cause with an excuse for petty scuffles which would have brought dishonour on the memory of the Martyrs.

And although the FfC has nothing to hide, we did not wish to make life easy for the Special Branch cameramen who were recording every face on the march. The majority of our activists who were present therefore watched but did not join the parade. The fact that the police used intelligence gained in this way to launch a wave of dawn raids and arrests of Welsh activists shows that this precaution was a wise one.

But as the TV news reported that evening, members and supporters did take part in the 200 strong rally in a personal capacity as observers.

CADRE ACTION

Meanwhile in Caernarfon, cadres hung two banners from the battlements of the castle high above the town. The first banner was of a sword being forged in fire - symbolizing the birth of the National Revolutionary movement through the struggle ahead.

The second proclaimed in Welsh: POLITICAL SOLDIERS - NATIONAL FRONT and gave the Wales NF Contact Line: 0222 225698.

The banners, which were very striking and highly visible, were still on the castle when our activists left the town centre in the early evening. Judging by the phone calls still coming in late that night, they were still hanging on the floodlit castle walls until the next day.

Other NF activists must learn from this success. The slogan banner was quickly painted with fabric paint on an ordinary sheet. Small weights at the bottom corners kept it hanging straight in the breeze (don't bother on a windy day!). The colours black and red are most striking and show up well in photographs.

SO the whole operation went smoothly. But was it a success?

The reason for the NF activity was twofold. First, to raise the political temperature in North Wales - to make people remember the events of twenty years ago, to make young people want to know more about them and why two men with everything to live for gave their lives for Wales. Only by thus making people remember the past can we hope to get them to think about the future and about the deadly threats faced by Wales and the Welsh language.

Secondly, to let the people of Wales know that the Ff.C. exists and is planning and organising to lead and inspire the revolution in spirit, attitude and action which our nation needs to survive.

On both counts, we were successful. The Abergele Martyrs march received more publicity because of our intervention than in the previous ten years combined. This is just one small example of how the NF can achieve victory for Wales where others go through old routines which, however noble, reach none but the already converted.

Quite simply, we showed that Ffrynt Cenedlaethol Cymru gets results!

FOUNDATIONS

It is now vitally important that we do not lie back on our laurels. If we do so it will all have been a waste of time. For although we have laid the foundations of future growth, foundations are no use unless we build on them.

Now is the time for Wales NF to rise up and show the Welsh people our ideas, so that they can judge us and join us. We intend to tear Wales from the grip of careerist sell-out politicians. To do this, we need to organise in every city, town, village and household. To start with, this means increasing our output of literature, especially our Welsh paper Y Ddraig Goch and NF News.

To help us do this, we call upon all National Front supporters from all our nations to help their comrades in Wales. We need Welsh leaflets, posters and stickers. We need to expand. Our message is desperately needed in Wales, where the Third Position tradition established by Saunders Lewis is waiting to be revived by our young Movement.

But to do this, we need your help. Our 24 hour Contact Line has already proved invaluable in dealing with media enquiries. Now it is vital to get the number into the hands of all Welsh folk.

MOVEMENT OF THE FUTURE

Those who already understand the need for action for Wales must be able to contact the Movement of the Future instead of the parties of the past.

This is why we have opened the CYMRU FIGHTING FUND. Our activities have already laid the foundations of an effective National Revolutionary movement in Wales. But we need your help to get the materials needed to build on those foundations. So please send what you can afford today rather than tomorrow.

Payment should be made to Cymru Fighting Fund and sent to:
The Secretary, PO Box 340, Caerdydd, Cymru, CF1 7UX.
All donations will be acknowledged in NFN in the usual way.

Welsh, the oldest living language in Europe, is threatened with extinction. The Welsh nation is on her knees and bleeding to death from a hundred moral, social and economic wounds. Only a National Revolution can change this - and only the National Front can inspire a National Revolution!

CYMRU FIGHTING FUND

I would like to support FfC Cymru's struggle to save their beautiful and unique heritage and to break free from the centralist chains of Westminster.

I enclose a donation of £ . p and would/would not like my contribution acknowledged in the usual way.

RESCUE THE CHILDREN

With the number of butchered innocents approaching 3 million since the adoption of David Steel's "Kill the Children" Bill in 1968, an effective pro-life direct action movement has arisen at last.

Known as Rescue, the movement has already saved the lives of countless children through the mass picketing of abortion mills and the pavement counselling of distraught women who through ignorance or despair would otherwise have allowed their children to be physically torn apart whilst in the womb.

Rescue was formed in America several years ago and has since spread on an international scale. The movement is strongly reminiscent of the Rumanian Legion of St. Michael Archangel - the Iron Guard, in its militancy, discipline, sacrifice and spiritual emphasis. In these qualities lies its strength.

The greatest weapon in its struggle is prayer: the most efficacious means of combat against the growing manifestation of evil.

Heroically, against a background of increasing repression and physical abuse directed towards it by State authorities and the Left, Rescue encapsulates the spirit of the Legion in one more area.

It refuses to be provoked into violent confrontation or reaction.

The sight of men, women and even children being screamed at, spat upon, kicked and punched whilst calmly praying has given the movement an unmeasurable air of sanctity and dignity that has won the hearts of thousands.

Rescue has only recently been formed in Britain but has already undertaken actions that have saved lives and stopped the degradation and exploitation of confused women in the killing factories. It is calling upon all those who still retain some virtue in their hearts and souls to join it in its sacred struggle.

JOAN ANDREWS

The best known figure in the Rescue movement is Joan Andrews. Joan was sentenced to five years imprisonment for peacefully walking into an abortion mill and attempting to remove the cord from a suction machine so that it could not be used to murder the unborn.

In the very next case, the same judge sentenced a couple of people to a mere four and a half years for complicity to murder.

Whilst in prison Joan was subjected to some horrific treatment including forced strip searches. In a letter to her sister she wrote:

"...the prison has violated a much deeper and greater area of my personal privacy by an attack on my modesty and purity.... What occurred was a very bad forced strip search with a male officer and about five female officers. The female officers could have handled it, as the two did at Escambia Jail when they handcuffed me to the bars. (See The Prison Letters of Joan Andrews - available from Rescue) As soon as I showed passive resistance here, to the extent of simply clutching my clothing about myself, the male officer said I was asking for it. With that he and the others managed to pull or tear off all my clothes (the male officer cut off some with scissors)..."

Joan has now been released and is continuing her Rescue work with more determination than ever.

STATE VIOLENCE

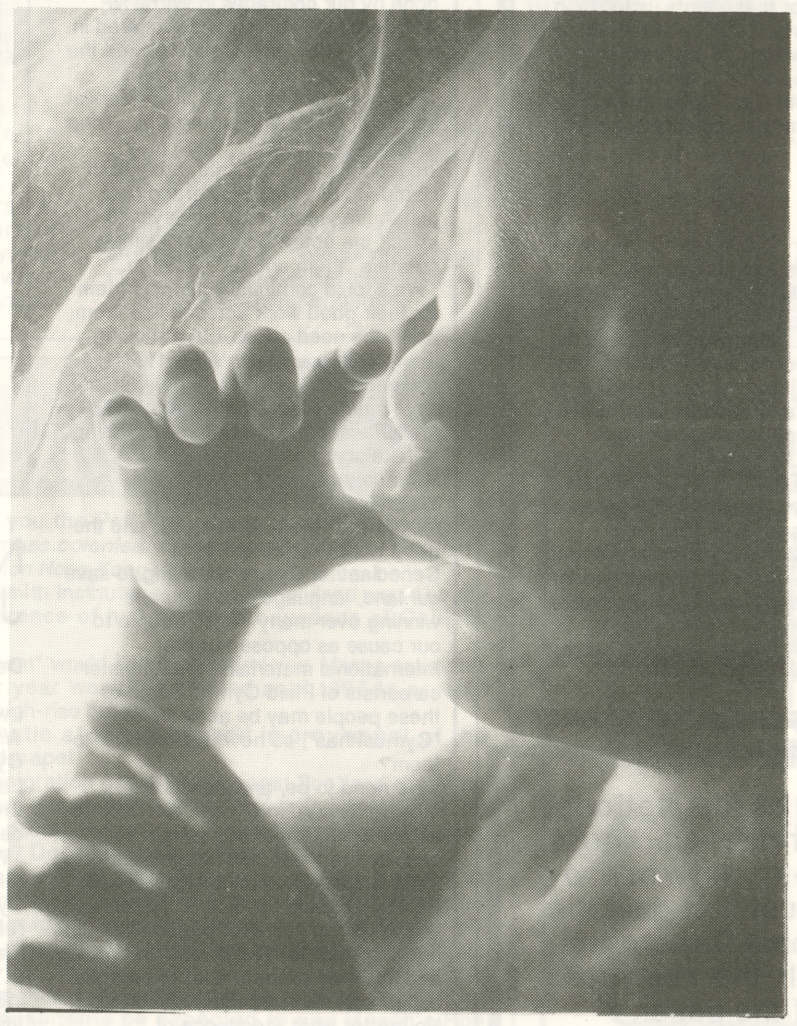
Reports coming in from across America show that in many states pro-lifers are being treated with increasing violence as they work to protect the little ones. Many individual policemen have been expressing their reluctance to arrest peaceful rescuers - some going so far as to resign and/or join rescues themselves.

Others have been demonstrating a zeal for torture techniques and the use of martial arts weapons against pro-lifers.

• Pittsburgh. A rescue operation on 11th March saw 125 arrested. Rescuers were beaten with truncheons, kicked and punched. The 65 men were taken to an asylum for the weekend.

The 60 women were taken to jail where they were dragged up five flights of stairs, many by the hair or bra; some were stripped nearly or completely naked in the process. Some were forcibly stripped and sexually molested by male guards. At least one woman was kicked between the legs by a female guard. The police and guards had removed their ID tags and prisoners were refused food for the first two days in jail.

• Los Angeles. At a large 25th March rescue operation, rescuers were charged by 300 police officers in riot gear, 40 of them on horseback, in full view of the media. Methods of arrest included "pain-compliance" holds consisting of inserting fingers into the nostrils and dragging the rescuer by the nose, grinding thumbs or knuckles in eye sockets, and lifting or dragging people by their ears. There were numerous cases of broken or dislocated limbs, wrist injuries, one broken ankle and various cases of possible nerve damage from tightly bound plastic wrist restraints.



425 of the 1000-plus rescuers spent four days in jail until public pressure forced their release.

• West Hartford. At the 1st April rescue operation, police arrived with an ambulance already in tow and with badges and nameplates already removed to prevent identification.

In an April 4th editorial the Orange County Post, a local weekly, described the scene as follows:

"It was a day when all civil rights of those arrested were suspended, when torture, physical injury and abuse were the norm... At least five rescuers had bones broken by the West Hartford Police. Many had their hands bound behind their backs with oversize cable ties... and were then carried or dragged by these straps... People passed out from the beatings and the pain inflicted by the police. 23 of the rescuers, including a 73 year old Catholic auxiliary bishop (George Lynch) were forced to stay for two nights in a courtroom building without bedding or blankets and with the air-conditioning turned on to drop the temperature even more. Fingers were bent over backwards till they touched the arm. A man with a dislocated bone had his injured arm twisted by the police in the courtroom in front of the judge; the police chief told them they got what they deserved...."

• San Diego. At the 8th April rescue operation, 117 arrested rescuers, according to the newspaper San Diego Union, "were forced to move by the twisting of nunchakus, an Okinawan martial arts weapon, around their wrists.... Nunchakus are made of two pieces of wood (or plastic), attached by a strap... When wrapped around a suspect's wrists, a police officer can increase the pain incrementally by twisting the sticks. 'When the wood hits the bone, that's when it really starts to hurt,' one sergeant explained later. 'They'll feel that for a week.' Those who didn't respond to the martial arts weapon had their hair pulled and were poked on a pressure point below the ear."

DEEPEST IMPULSE

Despite these and other instances of violence against peaceful pro-life rescuers, Rescue spokesmen claim that it only increases their strength and determination. Richard Cowden-Guido, a nationally recognised leader and historian of the rescue movement, and editor of The Prison Letters of Joan Andrews, explained:

*"The State is now doing what we always knew it would. We want to stop the tea-party holocaust. You stop killing our brothers and sisters, or you start killing us - that has always been the deepest impulse of the Rescue movement."

THE TERROR IS STILL WITH US

IN this bi-centenary year the National Front stands alone in the British political sphere in its condemnation of the French Revolution. The Revolution was no mere historical event, but a watershed in the history of the world that announced the arrival of a new era, an era unsurpassed in the growing domination of evil.

The Revolution of 1789, that masonic inspired orgy of hate, tore down not just a corrupted monarchy but the very pillars, the battered pillars, of civilization, which today lay fragmented but yet somehow still exist. It was truly a revolution that tore the world asunder, its false notions not merely gripping France, but revertebrating throughout Europe until they gripped the world. From it came the climate and the false liberty that inspired and helped the cursed political creeds of the modern age to exist and spread their poison.

In his Pour qu'll règne, Jean Ousset quotes Bishop Gaume from The Revolution: Historical Researches, published in 1877. The passage succinctly reveals the nature of the abomination:

"If, tearing away its mask, you ask it: 'Who are you?' it will say to you, 'I am not what is thought. Many people speak of me, and very few know me. I am neither carbonarism, nor rioting, nor the change from monarchy to republic, nor the substitution of one dynasty for another, nor the temporary disturbance of the public order. I am not the howlings of the Jacobins, nor the furies of la Montagne, nor the battle of the barricades, nor looting, nor arson, nor the agrarian law, nor the guillotine, nor the drownings. I am not Marat, or Robespierre, or Babeuf or Mazzini, or Kossuth. These men are my sons, they are not I. These things are my works, they are not I. These men and these things are transitory facts, and I am a permanent state.

"I am the hatred of all order which man has not established and in which he is not king and God all together. I am the proclamation of the rights of man without care for the rights of God. I am the foundation of the religious and social state upon the will of man instead of the will of God. I am God dethroned and man in his place. This is why I am called Revolution, that is to say, overthrow..."

AUTHORITY CONFERRED

That was the crux of The Revolution: the denial that authority proceeded from God and was conferred upon governments in His name. The Revolution, or rather the false libertarian notion behind it, was not concerned with attempting to reform a corrupted monarchy or to replace the institution with another form of government. It was not concerned with bettering the social conditions of the French peasantry and the growing urban masses. No, these things were merely the instruments that it used to conceal its true nature. They were tools that gave The Revolution the opportunity to put into effect the dark work of its master. The Revolution did not say "You cannot do this or that. You are exceeding your authority." It did not say "This law and these actions do not conform to the Moral Law and are therefore null and void." Instead, it proclaimed that the will of the people was supreme. In other words it denied the absolute authority of God and replaced it with the absolute authority of man. And from this false principle flowed all the other erroneous notions of authority that have manifested themselves and plagued entire nations and peoples: the will of the State is supreme; the will of the ruling party, or The Party, is supreme; the will of the individual is supreme; the will of the king is supreme.

The false notion had reared its ugly head before, but not until The Revolution did the attack become universally successful. The result? There was no longer one absolute Authority that civil law had to reflect and adhere to: it became an accepted 'principle' that morality was relative. Rousseau's belief that the General Will of the masses determined right from wrong, good from evil, at any given time was the real Terror of the revolutionary years in France. It is the same Terror that haunts us today in our liberal democratic system: the moral basis of our family of nations is determined by the power of finance or the whims of parliament. In National Socialist Germany the conception of morality to be held by the nation was determined by The Party. In the Communist States, morality is determined by The Party. The Anarchists proclaim that morality is subject to individual interpretation.

SACRED TASK

It is the sacred task of the national revolutionary movement to re-affirm that morality is absolute and comes from God. We must proclaim at every opportunity that civil law is only legitimate if it is based upon the Moral Law, and where it is not it must be opposed.

Paradoxically, it is because we oppose the false principles of The Revolution and their effects that we are, of necessity, a revolutionary movement. The ideology of the Third Position rejects the false maxims of Capitalism and Socialism, making our creed a revolutionary alternative. Modern society cannot be merely reformed, it is rotten at its very core.

When we raise our symbol of the Celtic Cross, people must understand that we do so because we stand for Truth and Tradition. When we raise our green banners people must understand that we do so because green is the colour of hope. We must remember the words of José Antonio:

"I believe that the flag has now been hoisted. We are going to defend it happily, poetically..... People have always been moved by poets and let those be damned who, faced with such destructive poetry, can not raise their own poem of promise."

And let our enemies pay attention to the words of Victor Hugo: "You say the poet is in the clouds; but so is the thunderbolt."

CHINA CRISIS

Dear Editor,

The recent events in Communist China, and the reaction of our thinkers thereto, have to my mind exposed the need for far greater analysis and clarity of perception than the NF has thus far been prepared to show.

Whereas Ulster Nation has described the students evidently massacred by the authorities as "martyrs" and makes reference to their "noble sacrifice" with its implication of noble ideals, NF News has dismissed the same students as "materialist drones " and rejects theirs as a "liberal ethic". I believe that neither position is acceptable in isolation.

The main impetus for the demonstrations was without doubt a rejection of the tyranny under which the Chinese people cower, and with this much we all presumably sympathise. The "solution" clearly envisaged by many of the demonstrators (though there is no evidence to suggest by all) is a counter-revolution based upon the anti-values of Western liberal society, which conversely we must condemn. There exists a parallel, as NFN correctly points out, with demonstrations in the West which call for Marxist "solutions" to Capitalist oppression.

But it is not acceptable to condone repression or brutality on the grounds that the dissidents have failed to think out their positions thoroughly enough to have inspired them to call for a Third Way. The cure for ignorance is education, not extermination. It is also likely that to some extent the ideals which the students hold in their hearts are not those of exploitation or decadence but instead are progressive ideals which they wrongly believe the West to share.

Neither should it be taken for granted that the West's instinctive support for the students necessarily indicates that they are all ignorant of the existance of a Third Way either. The same Western opinion has supported the Mujahadeen in Afganistan, just as the Communists at first supported the Islamic uprising in Iran in 1979. Both systems are given to errors of judgement in their determination to decry each other.

It has been suggested to me by certain NF thinkers that the call for "freedom" and "liberty" from the students is evidence in itself of their adherence in toto to the liberalistic values of the French Revolution. This is nonsense, for the words have so many meanings that they can both be applied to describe anything from the most fundamental of human rights to the most indefensible of perversions.

I fear that in our keeness to display our loathing of crass libertarianism we face the danger of reacting adversely to any manifestation of a desire for basic human freedoms. This would be sad and also unnecessary, for there is no contradiction between the principles of unconditional subservience to God; of respect for traditional sources of authority such as the Church and the family (which is conditional upon such sources continuing to fulfil their correct functions); of responsibility to our communities; and of our inalienable right as human beings to be free from exploitation, corruption or repression by our fellow man.

I feel our worldview would benefit were it shaped with this thought in mind.

P.A., West London.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Our article did not condone the repression and brutality of the Chinese State when dismissing the student-led protests. It merely pointed out the inevitable futility of the demonstrations which evidently called for the "Westernisation" of China with all that our sick society entails. As our correspondant correctly points out, the words "freedom" and "liberty" hold different meanings under different circumstances. But the student protests clearly demonstrated that theirs was a call for the libertarian ethos of the Revolution. Witness their choice of symbolism - the Statue of Liberty!

NEW ROADS - NO SOLUTION

Dear Sir,

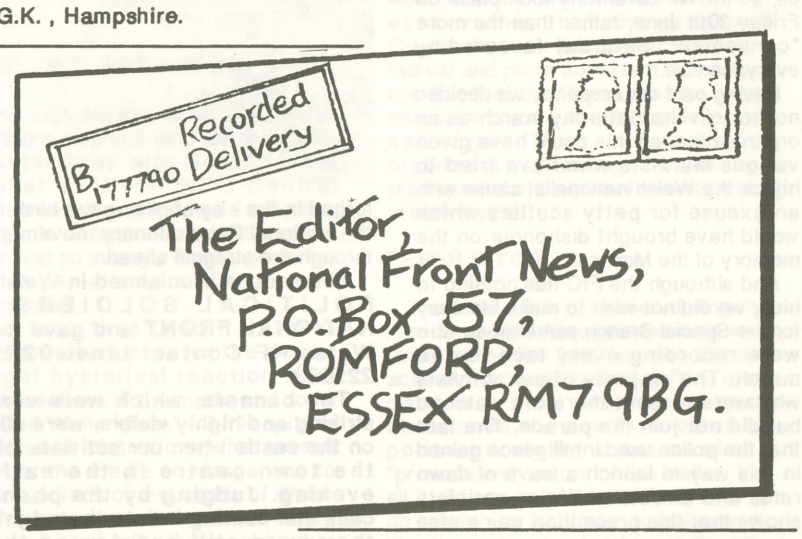
If S.C. of East Anglia believes that even more road construction will solve traffic problems in the U.K then I'm afraid that he is going to be disappointed (NFN 119).

When roads are built they simply attract more cars, drawn from a vehicle pool that can expand virtually indefinately. The more roads we build, the greater the congestion.

The answer is to encourage use of public transport: rail, bus and coach. In addition, we can take freight off the roads and send it not only by rail, but also by canal.

Let us not forget the ecological damage caused by futile road building where forest and meadow are destroyed, as well as compulsory house purchase and the destruction of traditional and rural communities with the flood of new arrivals attracted by the new industry that major road building attracts.

G.K. , Hampshire.



WELSH CAMPAIGN

REACTIONARY SLOGANS

Dear NFN,

I feel it was wrong in NFN* 119 to call Cymdeithas yr laith Gymraeg "Marxist led" and "Marxist windbags". It is true that they attacked the excellent work done by our comrades in Wirral NF and were very foolish and blinkered in doing so. They have also attacked the NF on TV and in the newspapers.

However, to simply call them Marxist seems to be leaning towards bandying reactionary slogans . There may indeed be a few Marxists throughout Cymdeithas Yr laith Gymraeg (not just in the leadership), however to attack the entire Society will simply create a "them and us" situation.

We should continually support them for their good work and criticize them when the need arises, but attacking them, as the article in NFN* 119 seemed to do, will merely polarize us.

We must not forget that in the 1970's the NF was "anti Welsh" so it is going to take some time before "Cymdeithas" accept that we are a Welsh National Revolutionary movement. Many already do, and the good work that we in Ffrynt Cenedlaethol Cymru are doing to save our land, language and culture is winning over many Welsh people to our cause as opposed to the International materialist Westminster careerists of Plaid Cymru. Some of these people may be activists of "Cymdeithas", so how will this look to them?

We need to be, and indeed are moving forward in Cymru. We need to attack the filth that has sought to destroy the traditional nationalism of Plaid Cymru's founders with Marxism. But we shouldn't attack "Cymdeithas" blindly as they do a lot of good work in seeking to save "Welshness" in Wales and this may alienate a lot of potential support for Revolutionary Nationalism. No matter what the stance of "Cymdeithas", as they see the NF's work succeeding they will eventually accept us for what we are- a movement for National Freedom and Social Justice and any vicious attacks on them now may destroy that process.

NOT JUSTIFIED

Dear NFN,

I write regarding the article included in NFN* 119 concerning your branding of Cymdeithas yr laith Gymraeg (Welsh Language Society) as being led by those adhering to the corrupt and decadent thinking (!) that is Marxism.

Whereas the NF is quite correct in referring to the internationalists, Plaid Cymru as being overtly neo-Marxist, a reference further justisfied due to Plaid's non-denial, the branding of C.Y.R.G. as containing a heavy influence that is Marxist is in no way a justified statement.

Although it is a widely held belief that several "leading" members and perhaps a few rank-and-file members hold political leanings that tend to be considered "extreme leftist" it would only be the politically naive and simplistic activist who would hold beliefs in the Marx mold as every politically aware Welsh-speaker understands the philosophy of these types who have many a time confessed to their acceptance that the Welsh language will be annihilated in the quest for the "Socialist Utopian State".

Therefore the Socialist ethos is as much the enemy to the Welsh Nation as is the repressive regime that has kept our Nation in bondage for over seven centuries. Also to return to the article it concerned the issue of the on-going campaign by our comrades in the Wirral, Birkenhead area to draw attention to the question of second houses and the consequences of this on the culture and way of life of a people. Mr Steve Eaves, CYIG international affairs spokesman, contributed to the issue by slandering our Movement as racist etc.

Many amongst us, some who have no alliegance to our Movement hold the belief that the slandering came as CYIG's own "Wales is Not For Sale " campaign was pettering out, due to non-interest on their part. Many suggestions abound, one of them includes the notion that CYIG have never taken too kindly to any issue that could not be considered "their own". Add to this the fact that they also don't go for issues that show obvious signs of lengthy and complicated matters.

In this context we think the CYIG leadership should be highlighted as "pen pushing activists" in regard to their unhealthy penchant for petitions, which is unhealthy in general for the language because it will limit its usage to administration, and make us a nation of petitionists!

PROGRESS FOR MOVEMENT IN ULSTER

ALTHOUGH this year's "Twelfth" celebrations were held in a carnival-like fashion, owing to the extremely good weather, there was an air of underlying tension. This was stoked up by a series of sectarian attacks on youths guarding the traditional bonfire material - one youth died after being attacked by a hatchet wielding mob - and inflamatory statements by Seamus Mallon of the SDLP. Despite his provocative behaviour, where he did his worst to start trouble, the traditional festivities went ahead without incident in Keady, Co. Armagh.

At the nineteen fields, whilst most people rolled up their shirt sleeves, the assembled Orange brethren rolled up their trouser legs and heard the usual pearls of wisdom from various Orange and Unionist top brass.

At the Hillsborough demonstration, Jim Molyneaux claimed that the obnoxious Pact signed there in 1985 was "dying". The same man, in 1987, told those silly enough to listen that the Dublin Deal was dead and it only needed burying. Obviously it has had some kind of resurrection in the meantime.

At Ballymena, the local Orange District Treasurer, Douglas Gaston, announced that an "illegal" collection was being taken up in the field to help pay the legal costs of the Paris 3. This despicable individual advised the audience to report any collectors to the RUC. People showed good sense and ignored this traitors advice.

CONTINUED PROGRESS

For our Ulster comrades, the "Twelfth" marked continued progress for the Movement. A special edition of Ulster Nation was sold out in record time. Ulster Nation's message of self-determination for the Ulster nation is reaching more Ulsterfolk than ever before. The Ulster NF has become even more firmly associated in the public's mind as staunch advocates of independence.

Our message is being seriously considered by more and more people.

NF sales teams, made up entirely of Ulster cadres and UN Supporters, sold the Movement paper in Belfast and towns and villages throughout Ulster.

For the first time, no volunteers from the "mainland" were needed to give a hand.

One little incident amused two of our Belfast comrades. They were sitting down by the roadside enjoying the parade after having sold out of their stock of papers. Five English supporters of the right-wing Flag group staggered aimlessly alongside the main procession in an alcoholic haze, clutching unsold copies of their rag. Few people showed any interest in buying copies. It is clear that this group's pathetic annual attempt to confuse Ulsterfolk about the NF has failed again.

THE Movement in Ulster is still the centre of controversy after stirring up a hornets nest during the Euro-Elections.

During the Euro-hype, the Ulster NF, as with other sections of the Movement, ran a successful abstentionist campaign.

Massive publicity was generated when the Ulster Nation abstentionist leaflet shown here found its way through thousands of letter boxes.

Ian Paisley's vote dropped by a massive 70,000 from his previous result.

How To Vote~

CAUL, Brian - Labour Party 87

HUME, John - SDLP

KENNEDY, Laurence - NI Conservatives

LANGHAMMER, Mark - Labour for Rep Govt

LYNCH, Seamus - Workers' Party

MORRISON, Danny - Sinn Fein

NICHOLSON, Jim - Ulster Unionist Party

PAISLEY, Ian PARIS K - DUP

SAMUEL, Malcolm - Ecology/Green Party

On June 15th you will be asked to cast your vote for the so-called European Parliament in Strasbourg. One candidate will be DUP leader, Ian Paisley. This man has betrayed many of those who once put their trust in him. Remember the Paris Three! Spoil your vote! Write PARIS on your ballot paper.

BECOME A FRIEND OF THE MOVEMENT

IT'S THE LEAST YOU CAN DO!

THIS is the face of Britain's past. But will it be our future? Not if the Establishment parties and their so-called radical opposition such as the Greens and the Marxists can help it. Further mass immigration will quickly destroy our cherished identity forever. If this saddens you, if it frightens you, if it angers you, then join our struggle by becoming a Friend of the Movement.

To become a member of this association it costs a mere £15 per year - in other words we are asking you to give less than 29 pence a week to help save our country. Surely it's the least you can do!

In return you will receive a FOM card, we will keep you updated with important developments and achievements in our work and you will gain the satisfaction of knowing that you are playing an important part in our struggle. Quite apart from allowing us to carry on with, and expand, our work, Friends of the Movement play the important role of acting as the eyes and ears of the Movement in the population.

Remember the Cause in your Will

We wish our readers and supporters a long and healthy life, but for all of us the time for departure must eventually come. We feel that everyone will wish, when this time does arrive, to leave something behind that will help to carry on the struggle.

You can help the Cause when you are gone by making provision in your Will for those who will be doing the fighting after you. You can do this by bequeathing money to the National Front. Make sure you remember the National Front when you make out your Will. If you have already written your Will add a codicil for the benefit of the Movement. If you are unsure about any of the legal technicalities in arranging this, please do not hesitate to contact our Legal Department or see your own solicitor and he or she will advise. A short time ago the National Front benefitted froma substantial amount of money left to it by a deceased supporter. You too can help in this way. Can you think of a better way to go?

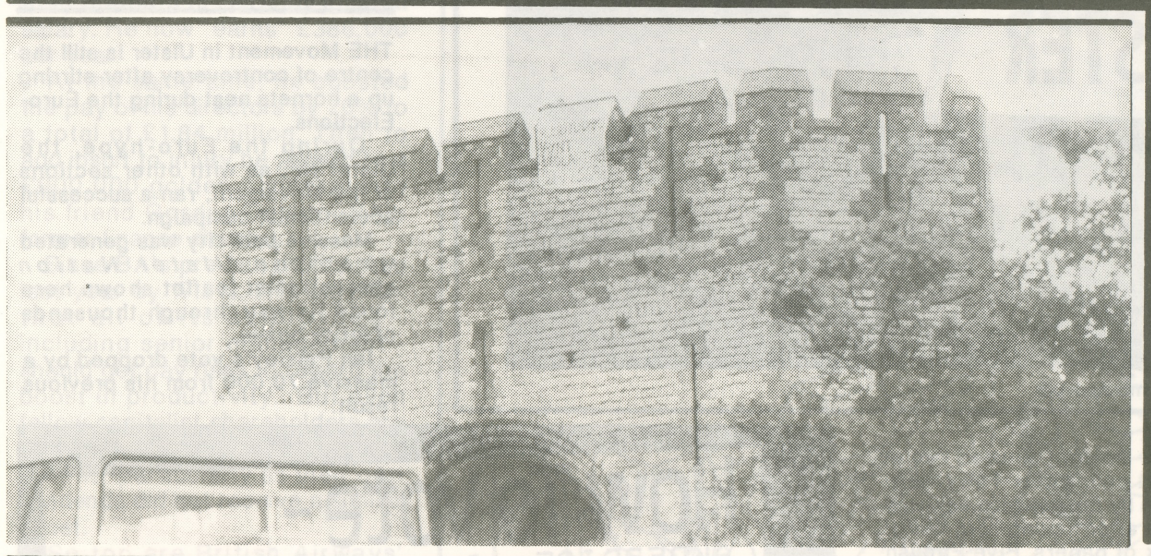
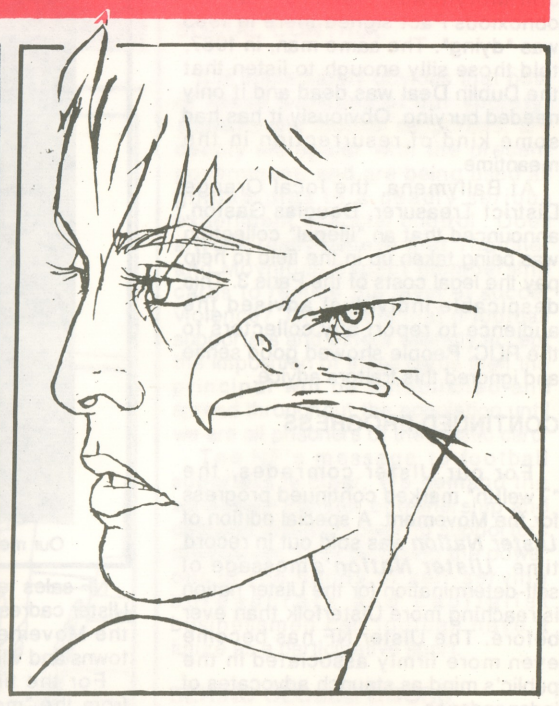
A Third Way Beyond Capitalism and Communism

JULY 1st DEFIANCE



SEE REPORT ON CENTRE PAGES



‹WALES IS NOT FOR SALE› - OR IS IT?

CYMDEITHAS yr laith Gymraeg - the Welsh Language Society - is a noble failure! It gives us no pleasure to say this, for in spite of the neo-Marxist leanings of some of its leadership, we have enormous respect for the tradition of self-sacrifice of the Cymdeithas activists.

But with the Welsh identity threatened with extinction, it is not the time to mince words in order to avoid offending people.

A good starting point from which to assess the value of the Cymdeithas is their recent Nid yw Cymru ar werth ("Wales is not for sale") campaign.

Part of this involved the distribution of a bi-lingual leaflet headed Buddsoddwch yn y Gymuned ("Invest in your Community"). This appealed to local councils to demand from Westminster the right and the money to buy houses, businesses and farms on a large scale, then rent them to local people.

The leaflet calls for a Five Year Plan to buy up businesses such as Post Offices and garages, with a further aim of owning 10,000 houses for letting as well within the first three years.

The proposed purchases would naturally all be targetted in rural "Welsh" Wales, where 10,000 houses would form a significant percentage of the housing stock.

When these were added to existing council houses, it would mean that the councils would be enormously powerful landlords.

Taken to its logical conclusion, this means that the Cymdeithas are proposing to replace an English dominated private capitalism with a "Welsh" bureaucrat-run mini-State Capitalism.

UNHEALTHY

As a short-term measure, were their drive successful, it might help slow the decline of the language. But its long-term economic and social effect would be extremely unhealthy, for it would help to concentrate property in fewer and fewer hands. Yet the real freedom and prosperity which Wales needs to survive can only come about through the more widespread distribution of property.

And even in the short-term, a campaign for financial help for Welsh speakers to buy their own houses and businesses would have far more chance of success under the Tories than demands for a massive increase in council houses.

The State Capitalist leanings of Cymdeithas yr laith Gymraeg, show how far the Society has drifted from the thoroughly Third Position ideology of the great Welsh nationalist Saunders Lewis, whose Tynged yr laith lecture led directly to the founding of the Cymdeithas in 1962.

NO TRACE

True, its activists often still follow the example he set when he burnt down the Penyberth bombing school, by deliberately getting themselves arrested after direct action activities. But apart from this courageous and morally correct tactic, there is no trace of the ideas of Saunders Lewis.

Missing in particular, is his analytical mind and determination to avoid dependence on Westminster.

The incisive Lewis would surely have questioned whether the 27 years of fines and prison sentences incurred by Cymdeithas activists have given the Welsh language value for sacrifice.

True, there have been some limited gains, such as the success of the campaign for bi-lingual road signs. But even the successes are a two-edged sword. For in virtually every case, the Cymdeithas is asking for help from the centralist British state.

SAFETY VALVE

If it is refused, the campaign in question inevitably fails. But if the need to let a little pressure off through the safety valve leads Westminster to make some pro-Welsh gesture, it reinforces dependence on English bureaucrats, politicians and gold.

And it is the slave-like psychological dependence on Westminster and the "values" of the south-east which is at the root of the long decline of the Welsh nation.

While this dependence continues there is no hope of Wales attaining political freedom. Yet without political freedom and self-government, there can be no self-respect. And without self-respect the oldest living European language will fade away to a few words to amuse the tourists.

Quite simply, the Welsh identity and nation will only have a future when we stop begging Westminster to help us, and learn how to do things for ourselves.

CAP IN HAND

So what sort of things could Cymdeithas yr laith Gymraeg do to avoid having to go cap in hand to Westminster? Once again, consider the "Wales is Not for Sale" campaign.

We have no idea how much Cymdeithas activists have handed over to the British state in fines over nearly three decades. It must run into hundreds and thousands of pounds.

Suppose that this fortune had been paid instead into a Welsh co-operative investment fund whose primary aim was to provide interest-free loans and outright grants to Welsh-speakers to buy homes in their own areas, and to help set up co-operative businesses.

If that had been done, the Cymdeithas co-op network would not now need to be begging for the state to buy houses and businesses, for through it Welsh people would already own a vast number of them.

Then think of the total of years which Cymdeithas activists have wasted in prison. Imagine if this had been avoided, but that the men and women involved had instead given their time in constructive work for the nation.

REBUILT

Only two or three years ago, derelict farms could be bought for a few thousand pounds. These could have been rebuilt with this volunteer labour, then sold cheaply to young Welsh couples, who in turn could have supplied produce to local Welsh retail co-ops running village shops.

Now that property prices have risen so much, such a scheme would obviously be much harder. But experiments are still possible and would give invaluable experience for the future.

There is no doubt that Idwal Williams, the North Wales farmer threatened by the Race Commission for offering his home for sale to a Welsh family only (see NFN 117) would have been delighted to sell at a fair price to such a venture.

And if the foundations for such a positive movement are laid now, then things could take off rapidly in a few years time when property prices fall in real terms, and especially when the inevitable collapse of the EEC farm subsidies system leads to a crash in the price of agricultural land.

Instead of a long record of brave but largely futile confrontation with the British State, Cymdeithas yr laith Gymraeg could have an ever-spreading network of privately owned residents' and producers' co-ops.

NEW LIFE

These would bring new life to areas being strangled by unemployment and youth emigration. They would provide a bastion for the everyday use of the Welsh language. They could seek to involve the many English immigrants working in craft and cottage industry production so that it became economically and socially advantageous for them to learn Welsh.

By providing the prospect of permanent and satisfying jobs, rather than repeated court appearances, this approach would also help the Cymdeithas to overcome the tendency of people to be involved as students, but then to drop out when faced with the reality of having to raise a family a few years later.

There is no doubt that this would work. The only questions are whether the Cymdeithas leadership are prepared to admit that our analysis is correct. And whether their activists are prepared to make the same sacrifices in a long and hard programme of patient rebuilding of a society that they have repeatedly made in "exciting" confrontations with the state.

If the answer to these two questions is "yes," then Cymdeithas yr laith Gymraeg could immediately embark on an exciting and positive new road to Welsh survival and advancement. If the answer is "no," then although we have only a fraction of the resources of the Cymdeithas, Ffrynt Cenedlaethol Cymru will do it alone.
